MEETING DATES

December 15, 2004

Meetings are at the Board Office in Lexington at 9:00am

A Message From The President...

The Board of Architects has been busier this summer than anyone can remember. Our executive director resigned after seven years in the position. The Board has had three special meetings this summer and numerous committee meetings. Board member "homework" assignments to cover the necessary office work and decide how to proceed have taken a great deal of time from our jobs. We are committed to our positions and we are doing our best to ease the transition to a new Executive Director.

We've evaluated the way other states run their similar offices and discussed what we all believe the "ideal" situation here in Kentucky would be. You will see our "ad" in numerous publications and in this newsletter. We are entering a national search for our new Executive Director.

The position of executive director will be a full time job with state employee benefits. We will require this individual to be a licensed Architect. The new executive director will not be able to practice "traditional" architecture. We will expect him to focus all his time and attention on performing duties for the Board of Architects. Should anyone be interested in this opportunity please look at the information posted on our web-site. The Board will begin reviewing applications on October 15, 2004.

Our staff has also put in many extra hours keeping the office running smoothly without a director. Renewals for the Architects went out on time and we've had an excellent response from our licensees. The office staff hasn't allowed any work to go uncompleted. They've worked with all the Board members and asked us to pitch in where needed to answer your questions and concerns and assist the staff. They are currently in the process of sending out the first renewals ever for the interior designers. I want to commend everyone at our office on their efforts.

This dedicated Board has also spent time on issues that we feel are important to tackle at this time. We've sorted through many current issues and begun the process of making one monumental change.

Architectural Interns will be able to sit for the Architectural Registration Exam earlier. The Board approved changes to our regulations which will allow Architectural Interns to sit for the Registration Exam once they've obtained a NAAB accredited degree and gained at least one year of IDP experience. We expect the process of changing this regulation to take approximately three months. Interns will still have to complete IDP and the ARE prior to licensure. Please watch our web-site for more details and dates.

The Board is still working on improving the KRS 323 statute and regulations. Much of this work has taken a back seat to the imminent need of a new executive director. The current law doesn't always make sense in this new computer driven world and the Board and licensees through the years have had some frustration with interpreting certain parts of the law. We hope to put together some recommendations for changes within the next year.

We are also exploring laws that effect Architects in Kentucky other than only KRS 323. Our Board is regularly asked about the enforcement of the "contract administration" law. The Board is working on better understanding and better enforcement state wide of this law.

Finally, I want to tell you how wonderful it was meeting so many of our new certified interior designers at the reception this month. I am so glad we are able to recognize these accomplished individuals in their chosen career. We now have 124 certified interior designers and over 75 additional applicants in the process. I saw a few familiar faces and met so many new people. Now that you know where we are, and who we are, we can all more easily contact one another with the questions and concerns regarding this new certification.

CONGRATULATIONS!

NOTICE TO ALL KENTUCKY ARCHITECTURAL INTERNS

There continues to be confusion concerning the use of the term "intern architect." At the July 21, 2004 meeting of the Kentucky Board the following decisions were made:

(1) The use of the term "intern architect"
IS NOT allowed.

(2) The term "architectural intern"
will be allowed IF:

(a) the individual has a degree from an accredited architectural program AND

(b) is presently enrolled in or has completed the Intern Development Program (IDP).

If you have any questions about any other designation feel free to call the board office.

Did You Know...

Presentation of the registration bill to the 1930 General Assembly was the result of many unique circumstances and the endless actions of one individual. In 1928 the thoughts of obtaining a registration law was on the brink of dissolving. The economic depression had caused chapter spirit lows, the treasury was depleted, membership was declining, and the entire construction industry was at a halt. With these conditions present, the chapter decided now was not the time to pursue the registration law.

To a young, energetic architect named Clarence Julian Oberwarth, the decision not to move on the bill was quite discouraging. At that time 33 states had registration laws, including all states surrounding Kentucky except Missouri and Ohio. Oberwarth knew that by-passing the 1930 legislature would result in an unrecoverable loss of momentum for the architects. Knowing the Chapter would not change their minds on proceeding forward with the bill, Oberwarth, without revealing his intentions to anyone, decided to do it himself. Aware of the task ahead of him he gave his full attention to the bill over the next several months.

His first move was to take advantage of his personal friendship with then Republican Governor Flem D. Sampson. Oberwarth gave Sampson a full description of the bill and its intent, and promptly gave his endorsement and warned Oberwarth that an open endorsement by him at the time of a democratically controlled legislature might jeopardize any progress. His next move was to find a popular state Senator who would be willing to introduce the bill. Once again, personal acquaintance provided the assistance needed from a young senator in Versailles, A. B. Chandler. Step three was formalizing himself as a registered legislative lobbyist.

Shortly after the Senate completed its organization, Senator Chandler, true to his promise, introduced the Architectural Registration Bill. A few days later, he visited the House Chambers with Julian Oberwarth, to ask Representative Herman Handmaker of Jefferson County to sponsor the bill in the House. Mr. Handmaker accepted the assignment and the bill was now ready to move. On March 7, 1930 the bill was signed by the Speaker of the House and the President of the Senate and sent to the Governor. Then on March 11, 1930 the Governor expressed his faith in the profession and reaffirmed his promise to Oberwarth that he would sign the bill when passed. On March 17, 1930 the bill was signed into law by Governor Sampson. Thus on June 21, 1930, (ninety days after adjournment of the Legislature) the Kentucky Architectural Registration law was implemented. The only costs had been a small amount for travel prior to the meetings of the General Assembly and a few cups of coffee while the legislature was in session!

Shortly after passage of the bill and its signing by Governor Sampson, the Kentucky Chapter of AIA, held a meeting of celebration in which two small gifts were presented to Senator Chandler and Representative Handmaker. Lastly, with sincerest appreciation, a wristwatch was given to Oberwarth. He humbly accepted the gift and wore it faithfully as a badge of honor. On the back of the watch was inscribed:

C. Julian Oberwarth
From
Ky. Chapt. AIA
In appreciation 1930

Oberwarth was the first registered Architect in the Commonwealth and served on the board as secretary/treasurer from 1930-1944. Mr. Oberwarth actively practiced architecture in Frankfort Kentucky from 1925-1965. In 1966, Mr. Oberwarth retired from active practice and served as the board's first Executive Director. In 1983, Mr. Oberwarth died; however, his accomplishments, dedication, and passion for the practice of architecture will never will be forgotten.
